

Thanks for your comments! It was great to hear from you! Glad to hear that you are well and things are going good! I hope by now you have that job with Grafic Management. Having a job is obviously important. When you left my 2-years had just ended in the LIbrary. I then became the Respite Worker (Wheelchair pusher) until a job opened in the Chapel and I got hired on 7-8. I like the job! And I'm very thankful to have a job! Since the Olympics started on July 27th, I've been doing little else besides watching them. The USA is doing very good and I've enjoyed watching all of the events that NBC has shown. The USA women go for gold in Soccer today but its not being shown live on TV. They play Japan who barely beat them in the 2011 World Cup final. Go USA! Have you been able to watch any of it? Oh yeah, the women also go for gold in water polo today and I guess NBC is going to show that coming up next. I won't be able to see it all because I have to go back to work when count clears but at least I'll be able to watch it until then---about a half an hour. Brother, I am so glad to hear you have been able to spend so much time with Payton Mae! Praise God! Children are an absolute blessing! And YES they can and do change our lives!!! You are truly blessed brother and I am so happy for you! Enjoy each and every day of being a father and I know you will! I'm not so sure it's a great thing that she looks like you (Smile!) but you have other good traits that she will benefit from! I can't wait to see some pictures! I shared your comments with Joe and he is going to look into getting a Blog. There is a huge waiting list. It took me over six months after I applied for one. He says Hi and is doing good. Back to children I can tell you that Randy, Jr. changed my life! I wanted to become a better man so I could be the father I believed he deserved to have!. Make sense? I believe children are gifts from God! Well Brother, have a blessed day and get back to me when you can. Until Next Time.
