

ASK AN Inmate

I know you've all got questions? Why did we do what we did? What could possibly make us commit crimes? Are we sorry for what we have done, how and what would we change if we had it to do all over again? and of course Do we think we can change?

A lot of society believes we are forever doomed never to change and a menace to society unworthy of the time and effort and I agree with most but I also believe some have just made bad choices in life I won't lie to you and say some don't deserve to be in for life for those who have committed heinous crimes, violent offenders and so forth

But from what I have seen you have about 15% to 20% with psychological issues ranging from bipolar, depression and schizophrenia I'm not a great speller or a Dr, I'm just observant and notice that sometimes the system does not give proper care to those in need and some waste their lives away without help.

I'm not here to complain or radical the justice system of course there is a lot I don't agree with.

But from sitting here and seeing what I see from day to day we've seen a lot like talked to a lot also although I keep a distance because not all talk is positive there is a lot of negativity.

So I thought of you all out there my blogs are a way for me to vent or complain I know its Nothing you really care to hear.
