To die for, that worth dying for — I will!
partake Parlay par excellence, thou art!:
The Art & Craft of Literatures' brave heart,
* 'as much as I have eyes for Love — and still!,
the bard par up-to-par granted: "Free Will"
to emancipate True Freedoms' untart —
or — no tort shall be brung against thy sort.
Potential, such as much I love shall fulfill
out of all the worthiest worth of time —
to die alive Loves' eyes drink-fills Sonnet & Sonneteer alike more than "likes" loves
more the greater, never the less must chime
melodic & harmony's timeless soul-nets —
And!, this is Love — and what else is love?, Love!

Ugly

I can't make these bars, barb or razor wire
Look luxurious or appealable —
Not to mention!, the High Voltage wire charging the fence with Death Threats viable
to disbeath or critical condition & disaddition the population
much caring to care and look upon me Unhandsome and dire and gray as Time unkind strictening the sentence that be.
as ugly as steel & concrete, bears grime;
Blood; and the truth of prisoners murdered here —
"no!, I do not wish this upon you ever!"
Time would ruin me til I disappear
